Doubting Thomas—Wall St.
New Kind of Baby
Not Rum, Money
Not Jail, Europe

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

WALL STREET'S doubting Thomases were frightened yesterday, ran away from stocks, let the prices fall. Later they came back and put prices up again.

Fear seized them when Chicago's Federal Reserve Bank raised re-discount rates to 4 per cent. "to curb speculation."

Speculation, polite name for stock gambling, should be curbed. But intelligent financiers might find a better way than making money dear for those engaged in regular business and frightening legitimate investors.

High finance bitterly opposed the Federal Reserve system that has since proved its salvation, and does not know everything.

The dollar has dropped from 100 cents to 60 cents of real value. Wages have gone up, the country's wealth has increased enormously. Regardless of discount rates, sound values will rise, as water does, until new values and the new dollar find their level.

Cyrus H. K. Curtis's eminently respectable newspaper says: "Crowds gather to stare at the home of the eugenic baby."

The interesting little story is not new. A widow lady, unmarried, with no children, decided not to spend a childless old age. And the so-called "eugenic baby" is hers.

But Europa was not married, nor Danea, mother of Perseus, temporary bride of the golden rain.

The mother of William the Conqueror was unmarried at his birth. The mother of Leonardo never married his father.

In early pagan days, what Mr. Curtis's editor calls "an eugenic mother" would have said, "A God visited me," and would have put on airs accordingly.

Now she says more simply, "I was determined to have a real interest in life." Morally, religiously and fundamentally it is wrong, for every child is entitled to the concentrated attention of A FATHER AND A MOTHER.

A famous, beautiful dancer decided to be a mother, without the formality of marriage, and wrote to George Bernard Shaw, whom she never saw, "I have great admiration for your intellect. What a wonderful thing it would be if a child could inherit my beauty and your brain."

Shaw, a cynic, but virtuous, is supposed to have replied, "Yes, but suppose the child inherited your brain and my beauty. What a calamity that would be."

Dr. Butler of Columbia says: "Rum will be the issue in 1928." But it won't.

GOODMAN ARMED; FEARED DEATH

HE HAD BAR TO BATTLE FOR LIFE

David Goodman, wealthy Brookline real estate man, slain in the basement of his Back Bay apartment house, armed himself three weeks ago in fear of an attack, it was learned today.

Goodman carried an iron or lead bar on his person and kept another in his office in Huntington avenue, Peter Kyriakides, janitor at No. 454 Huntington avenue, which property was also owned by the real estate man, told the Boston Evening American today.

It is now believed possible Goodman was killed with his own weapon, which he may have drawn

Hiker Arrested in Kentucky as Smith Girl

Olive Hills, Ky., Jan. 26.—A girl resembling Frances St. John Smith is held here pending the arrival of the missing Smith College student's brother.

The young woman merely laughed when told she was believed to be the missing student, although fourteen Dehart, who first called attention of the police to her presence in town, declared she had said she ran away from a girls' college.

The young woman was hiking with a young man and sought lodging for the night.

Quincy Man Dies in Miami

LINDY HOPS 400 MILES INTO SOUTH AMERICA

Cartagena, Colombia, Jan. 26 (I.N.S.).—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, piloting his famous "Spirit of St. Louis" plane, arrived here at 1:45 p. m. today for his first landing on South American soil.

Virtually the entire population of Cartagena was on or in the vicinity of the landing field to see the young American aerial ambassador bring his silver-gray plane to earth, and the first touch of the pneumatic-tired wheels on South American soil was the signal for a roar of cheering which drowned out the sound of the plane's motor.

Colonel Lindbergh flew here today from Colon, Panama, a distance of almost 400 miles.

Among those gathered to extend official welcome were American Vice-Consul Rand and officials of Cartagena.

Officials, advised today the young airman planned to honor Cartagena with a visit, hurriedly proclaimed a public holiday, with the result that all stores, offices and places of business closed.

TWO MORE ARRESTED IN STEAMSHIP CO. THEFTS

Police activities in the Eastern Steamship Line, Inc., larcenies were resumed today with the arrest of two more men, bringing the total in custody to ten persons, and revealing the aggregate amount of loot at more than $500,000.

John J. Harvey, 32, of Santuit street, Dorchester, was charged with the larceny of $22,600 in 72 counts during a period between January and July of 1927.

Richard W. Birmingham, 38, of Wesland avenue, was charged in five counts with the larceny of $7,400 in July of 1927.

The two men, former employes of the company, who were discharged some weeks before George W. Gordon's embezzlements became known to the public, were arrested at their homes by Inspectors Frank J. Haggerty and John F. McCarthy on warrants.

They were taken to headquarters, where they were booked, fingerprinted with the discovery of the fire without mishap.

SMITH GIRL SEEN ON LINER

By HERT FORD.

Northampton, Jan. 26.—Responding to a long-suppressed desire to run away, Frances St. John Smith, with only $50 in her possession, sailed for Savannah, Ga., from New York on the night of Jan. 13.

An inner urge for a "romantic adventure," twice expressed in her themes at preparatory school and college led her to steal away from Smith College early in the morning of that Friday, journey to Springfield and thence to New York by train, and sail that night, under assumed name, on the steamship "City of Atlanta."

She left the vessel at Savannah on completion of the voyage January 18.

That was the belief, almost positively established, of Massachusetts and New York authorities today.

FOUR HURT IN BLAST

Four firemen, victims of a hot air explosion, were taken to the City Hospital today from a fire that broke out in the two-and-one-half-story dwelling at No. 54 Crawford street, Roxbury.

The injured:

George Hassett, Engine 42, burns on the left hand, wrist, cheek and forehead.

Albert Murray, Engine 42, burns on the right side of the head.

Gerard Cusick, Engine 42, burns of the scalp, forehead and left cheek.

James McTighe, Engine 42, cut on the hand and burns.

The blaze started on the second floor from a defective chimney, according to the police report, and worked its way to the roof.

The injured men were working on the third floor when the hot air blast showered them with live embers.

The house is owned by Harry S. Liner and family. Three of the family were in the house, but escaped with the discovery of the fire without mishap.

WOMAN WITNESS IN OIL CASE GAGGED, ROBBED

Washington, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Counsel for William J. Burns reported to the court hearing the Sinclair-Burns contempt case today that a document affecting William J. McMullin, star witness for the government, was stolen last night from one of the defense witnesses.

A man entered the room while Mrs. Lantz's husband was absent, counsel said, bound and gagged her and ransacked her belongings.

Both Mrs. Lantz and her husband, William Lantz, had been summoned by the defense to contradict testimony by McMullin, a former Burns detective, that the Burns men faked charges against the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy jurors. The court is hearing testimony on a charge that Burns, Harry F. Sinclair and others were guilty of contempt because of

The Burns lawyer told the Judge the document was taken from Mrs. Jeanette Lantz, who had been relied upon to contradict some of McMullin's statements, during a mysterious attack on her in her room at the Hamilton Hotel.

BAR PARENTS OF LITTLE GIRLS ON HICKMAN JURY

Hall of Justice, Los Angeles, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—The trial of William Edward Hickman, kidnaper-killer of little Marian Parker, got off to its second start today with Superior Judge Carlos Hardy, who yesterday disqualified himself, formally turning over the case to Judge J. J. Trabucco, prominent jurist of Mariposa county.

The defendant was seated directly behind his chief counsel, Jerome K. Walsh.

Six men and six women were put in the jury box and District Attorney Asa Keyes briefly outlined the case.

Walsh interrupted with a brief objection to a phrase of Keyes' outline, and promptly was overruled. Judge Trabucco questioned the prospective jurors on their general qualifications.

One man in the box admitted having formed and expressed an opinion on the kidnaping-killing. After being challenged by the prosecution he was excused.

A new thrill and fresh interest had been injected into the case with yesterday's legal upsets and the sensation seekers responded in droves today.

Corridors of the Hall of Justice were filled with curious, pushing and tempting to "crash" the barriers to the courtroom without official passes.

A. C. Snow, an elderly man, fainted. Sidewalks and lawns were lined with the curious, resigned to the fact that they could not get in but content to hang around in the hope "something would happen."

Alfred Hickman, brother of the defendant, arrived ten minutes be-

ACOSTA IS PUT BEHIND BARS

Nantucket, Ct., Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Bert Acosta, pilot to Commander Richard Byrd in his trans-Atlantic flight, was taken to jail today to stay five days on conviction of flying a plane too low. The State claimed Acosta ignored a warning to refrain from flying over the town. He pleaded not guilty and rejected his contemptuous. Acosta paid the court costs and escaped working out the sentence.

SAVANNAH LINER PASSENGER IDENTIFIED AS LOST SMITH GIRL

ON HER WAY TO FRANCE SHE SAID

Only one detail—the checking of a name and Brooklyn address given by the girl—remained before they announced that definite trace of the girl has finally been found.

In Boston last night, a State detective accompanied by Boston police Inspectors Warren Leise and John A. Dorsey interviewed the officers of the Ocean Steamship Company liner "City of Atlanta," and from them practically definitely established that the missing student was a passenger on the boat.

Further investigation by New York police and private investigators has corroborated their belief.

Phoned for Ticket

The girl called the office of the Ocean Steamship Company in New York by telephone near sailing time on January 13. She said she wanted to sail on the boat and requested them to buy a ticket for her although she was not sure she could arrive at the dock before the ship sailed.

She appeared at the dock, however, shortly before the gangplank was raised at 4 p. m. obtained her ticket to Savannah and boarded the ship. She had no baggage and earried only a purse.

According to Captain Lazell of the ship, she answered in every detail the description of the Smith girl.

The purser assigned her to state room 38, near the men's smoking room, remarking that she might not care for the location because men would be going back and forth past her door. Her reply was that she did not mind.

SEEMED DEPRESSED

A short time out of New York, Captain Lazell noticed her seated forward on the deck, evidently depressed and, having in mind that she might be contemplating suicide, he approached and addressed her:

"It's very windy, isn't it?" he offered. "Do you mind if I sit down?"

"No, you may sit here," was the answer.

So then confided in a long conversation that she was the daughter of wealthy parents, that she was entering out on a great romantic adventure and was worried as to whether it would work out as well as she expected.

HEADED FOR FRANCE

She said she intended to sail for France from some Southern port, but had at the time only $50 in her purse; that she could get more, but decided to embark on her experiment without the aid of money.

During the remainder of the trip she conversed with First Officer James Champlin, speaking once or twice of Boston and referring also to Cambridge. She smoked cigarettes, but not to excess. The missing student smoked occasionally.

On the voyage she went under the name of "Miss C. J. Bonquet" and gave her address as No. 466 Eighty-fifth street, Brooklyn, N. Y. New York police so far have been unable to determine if anybody by that name resides at the Brooklyn address.

TRACE MOVEMENTS

A French name might very probably have been chosen by the missing student, who is known to avoid detection, because she was a great student of the French language, and last year traveled in France, Italy and Switzerland.

Savannah police and detectives are attempting to trace the movements of the girl after she left the ship at that port. First Officer Champlin reported that on the morning of arrival there, the girl refused her breakfast and upon his suggestion nibbled a piece of toast. She was not seasick.

The entire efforts of combined investigators was bent upon the Savannah line when Commissioner Alfred E. Foote, Captain Thomas E. Hodge of the State police and State Detective Fernald arrived here to assist Detectives Daly and Stokes in the dissemination of details relating to Miss Smith's disappearance.

ABANDON DRAGGING

"The reason Rush, Ferrari and myself are here is a general conference with the family of all those concerned in the investigation," said General Foote. He continued:

"We will not cast our minds on the question and try to come to some definite solution. It is a very puzzling case, and this is the biggest effort of the State."

After three hours' dragging of the Connecticut River below Hadley Falls today, State troopers were forced by abandon their work because of the tangling of the grappling lines by ice floes. They will renew their attempts when the wind dies.

The theory that the missing girl was kidnaped was entirely exploded today by James H. Smith, Jr., her uncle, and by Thomas J. Raymond, former district attorney for Hampshire County and at present acting as Mrs. Smith family's personal counsel at Northampton.

KIDNAPING DENIED

James H. Smith, Jr., said: "There is no truth in the report that the family has been in touch directly or by mail with any organized gang or anything resembling a gang. There is no excuse for using any such term as 'blackmail.' The only communications in our possession came in an attempt to protect himself, and that the slayer then determined to burn the body, but was frightened away before he could accomplish the deed.

"About three weeks ago," said Kyriakides, Mr. Goodman called me to one side as he was leaving his office in the Huntington avenue apartment, and pointing to a rear pocket, with his hands on his hips, he said: 'Do you know what I have in here?'

"I said: 'No.' Then he said: 'I have something here to protect me when I visit my different apartments.'

"He didn't show the weapon to me, but from his talk I judged it was a lead or iron pipe. He also kept a long iron bar in his office in Huntington avenue. He told me he kept it there in case anyone came in to see him.

"The strange part of it was that up to three weeks ago he never said anything that would lead me to believe he feared any sort of trouble. While a day or two of the time he told me he carried something for protection he asked me to accompany him to the Hemenway street apartment. He didn't tell me why he wanted me to go along and I didn't ask him, but after he had looked over the apartment found he told me he brought me along in the event he was attacked by anyone.

THREE GIRLS QUESTIONED.

"He appeared much worried at that time and it was then he told me of trouble he had with a minor he had fired. He said many strangers had appeared at the Huntington avenue office about the time he named himself. He advertised in the papers for janitors and the cellar at the Huntington avenue house was crowded with applicants. He hired a few for one week, and they may have worked in some of the apartments.

It was learned that five girls and one man, all of whom had been employed by Goodman as a one time or other, were to be questioned by Assistant District Attorney William H. McDonnell today.

The young women were employed by Goodman as bookkeepers, and it is hoped they may be able to furnish some clue as to any person or persons who may have had some grudge against the elderly apartment house owner and who has been killed.

The young women to be questioned today are Anna Mathews of Oakdale street, Jamaica Plain, who accompanied Goodman on his last visit to his apartment; Mrs. Hall, No. 115 Hemenway street, back thayr V. Cyrus, No. 26 Warren street, Charlestown. Also a youth whose name the police are withholding, is to be questioned.

LEARY SAYS NO MURDER.

Medical Examiner Timothy Leary made another examination today of Goodman's body today, and pronounced death due to shock, the man having suffered from an organic disease of the heart. There were lacerations of the left eyebrow, contusions of the nose and a series of abrasions on the forehead and back of both wrists. There was no fracture of the skull and no bones broken.

A small, almost microscopic, spot on the brain might have been caused by a fall, the medical examiner said, adding that the injuries to eyebrow and nose could have been made by either a fall or a blow.

An intensive search of the cellar at No. 115 Hemenway street, with the aid of searchlights today is to be made by Assistant District Attorneys William H. McDonnell and William L. Scholl.

TEACHER ADMITS HE HAS 2 WIVES; WON'T TELL WHY

Darien, Conn., Jan. 26 (A.P.)—Other than admitting he had been served with papers in a divorce suit brought by Helene A. Breinlick of Rutherford, N. J., whom he married on Oct. 28, 1921, James L. Young, Jr., a school teacher here, refused today to comment. A second Mrs. Young, who was Winifred Beardsley before her marriage on Nov. 22, 1927, teaches with her husband.

The Rutherford Mrs. Young claims Young's relations with Mrs. Young here constitute grounds for divorce. Young has maintained his first marriage was illegal. School authorities announced they will take no action.

SUSPICIOUS FIRE IN SOMERVILLE PROBED

Discovery of a suspicious blaze in Bennett street, Somerville, by Patrolman James F. Holmes today prevented a serious fire in the crowded tenement house district. An investigation of the fire is being made.

Holmes found the tin sheathing on a two-story building ripped away and a quantity of oil-soaked waste blazing.

After unsuccessful attempts to extinguish the fire, he ran to the Union square fire station and notified Engine 5. The building contained empty cases and barrels.

BACKS BILL TO BAN SAWED-OFF SHOTGUNS

Former Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, representing the National Crime Commission, today suggested the bill filed by Senator William I. Hennessey of Dorchester, designed to keep pistols and rifles—shotguns out of the hands of bandits. Under the Hennessey bill the term firearm would be defined in the law as meaning any revolver, pistol or shotgun having an overall length of 26 inches. Under the present law the length is but 12 inches.

printed and photographed, and were arraigned this afternoon in Municipal Court.

Attorney Gerald McCarthy, counsel for Birmingham, told Judge Zottoli that the district attorney was agreeable to bonds of $10,000, and this sum was fixed, both men being held for the Superior Court after they had waived the reading of the complaint and declined jurisdiction. Attorney Frank Farrell appeared for Harvey.

According to the police, Harvey was formerly chief freight clerk for the steamship company and Birmingham a cashier.

The Eastern Steamship Interests came "broke" on December 21 last when Meyer Friedman was arrested by Inspectors Haggerty and McCarthy, charged with receiving $40,000 stolen from the company.

The arrest followed a long investigation by the Wolf Secret Service Bureau of Boston, and was followed in rapid succession by those of Gordon, his wife Mrs. Etta Hessell Gordon, and her sister Miss Zella Hessell. Then followed that of Mrs. Rae Hessell Weichman of Detroit, another sister; Nicholas Tudesco, and Max Hessell a brother. Some time later Samuel Hessell, another brother, was taken into custody, bringing the total to eight.

The majority of those indicted by the Grand Jury were charged with receiving stolen property, and on being arraigned all were held in bonds aggregating $585,000.

Since their arrests the authorities have recovered $216,000 in money, diamonds and real estate. According to Assistant District Attorney Frederick T. Doyle, the Gordons spent $20,000 in living expenses, and $70,000 was entered from London by two of the men now under arrest.

NO PARENTS OF GIRLS TO TRY HICKMAN

EAR GIRL'S PARENTS.

More than a score of spectators' seats were vacant. Few women were in the forenoon crowd in court. Hickman sat upright behind his chief counsel, watching him and turning his head only to observe the ventremen being questioned.

Initial questioning indicated that Walsh would challenge any who had daughters of the age of Marian Parker, Hickman's victim.

Walsh also asked if the prospective jurors had any child attending the school from which the slain child was kidnaped.

An attack by the defense on the eligibility of Judge Trabucco to sit in the case was promptly squelched today.

Following the same tactics which resulted in Judge Hardy disqualifying himself, the defense objected to Judge Trabucco.

Atty. Walsh argued the visiting jurist had been appointed by the presiding judge of the superior court here and not by agreement of counsel on the judicial council. Judge Trabucco promptly overruled the attack on his eligibility and the hearing proceeded.

The defense examination was carried into a detailed and exhaustive process. One talesman was grilled in detail on the newspapers he read, the closeness with which he had followed the kidnaping case, the radio accounts and the discussion of the case he might have had with his wife or friends.

SANITY ANSWER GIVEN.

Walsh attempted to learn if the talesman held the opinion that insanity as part of a plea often was adopted as a means of escaping punishment. Forrest Murray of the prosecution objected to the direct form of the question, and promptly was sustained by Judge Trabucco.

Walsh demanded to know of the talesman if, in the case of Hickman, it would be necessary to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was insane.

The prosecution objected to object, but not before the talesman's prompt "Yes, sir" was out. Upon the affirmative reply the defense immediately challenged the talesman for cause, but the prosecution's objection was given an emphatic backing by the court.

The question then was overruled and the talesman remained in the box.

THREE JURORS ACCEPTED.

The intention of Judge Trabucco to speed the case all possible then was made known. He suggested that Walsh's questions were of such nature that he could examine the remaining eleven talesmen in a group and at once. The defense asked if the court's suggestion was an order. Judge Trabucco replied it was tantamount to an order on the general questions, but that the defense could examine the talesmen individually on all questions that could not be answered in a group.

At the end of the first hour of the trial three jurors had been accepted tentatively by the defense. They were two men and a woman, all well along in middle age.

WOMAN PENS HER DEATH POEM, THEN INHALES GAS

Lowell, Jan. 26—Receipt of two letters, one of which contained a poem entitled "With Folded Hands," revealed the suicide today of Miss Cora Bass, photographer and poetess, sixty, at her home, No. 103 Ladlaw street. The letters were posted yesterday to Roscoe F. Thomas of Mort avenue, deacon of the Fifth Baptist Church, of which Miss Bass was a member, and to John Wellenger of Loudon street, landlord. The men notified police, who found the woman's body on a couch in the living room, a gas tube in her mouth.

Raise Sub by Process That Failed on S4

New London, Ct., June 28 (A.P.)—A salvage operation which failed in the case of the submarine S-4, lost off Provincetown Harbor in December, has been worked successfully here in an experiment.

Two submarines, the O-2 and O-3, were brought to the surface from a depth of 30 feet within 15 minutes' time by filling their 10 fast tanks with air supplied from an outside source.

With an extra supply of oxygen and soda of fine absorb in case of mishap, the O-3, lying close to a wharf at the base, and with her full complement of men aboard, filled her ballast tanks and sank slowly to the bottom in 25 to 30 feet of water.

Previous to her submerging, the salvage lines were attached to both the ballast tanks and the compartment air line and ten pounds of air pumped into the compartments. Thrift connections were made on the surface as a matter of convenience.

As soon as the O-3 had settled on bottom, the O-2, to which the salvage lines had been attached, began pumping air into the ballast tanks and within 15 minutes the O-3 was floated to the surface again. The process was then reversed with the O-2 submerging and the O-3 remaining on the surface to furnish the air.

Hub Wife Sued After Battle in Hotel

Washington, Jan. 26 (U.N.A.)—Details of an alleged fistic in a private suite in an exclusive hotel were partly revealed today in a suit on file at the District supreme Court by Mrs. Margaret T. White, a matron at the hotel. She asked $10,000 damages.

The defendant is Mrs. James W. Harlo, Jr., wife of a wealthy Boston manufacturer.

Mrs. White charged Mrs. Harlo, who has been a guest at the hotel with her husband, beat her and called her vile names.

According to the suit, Mrs. White said she heard a woman screaming in the hall Thursday and saw a fight going on between Mrs. Harlo and another woman. She hurried to the scene and helped Mrs. Harlo to her room.

Mrs. Harlo asked for a drink of water. When she went to get it, Mrs. White said Mrs. Harlo hit her over the right eye. Mrs. White declared she knew no reason for the alleged assault.

Boston city and telephone directories do not contain the name of James W. Harlo, Jr., or Mrs. Harlo. Neither is the name in the Boston blue book.

WOULD MAKE THEM PAY IF HUBBY TOILS

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 26 (A.P.)—An income tax on the earnings of married women, the proceeds to be used for health and child welfare work, is the aim of Assemblyman William Breitenbach, Democrat, of Kings, in a bill he introduced today.

The purpose of his bill, he said, is not to find a new source of income, but to "eliminate a deplorable condition."

"The old-fashioned wife," he said, "to whom marriage is the only career, is being replaced by many of these employed married women, who flout the sacredness of marriage and militate against the purposes of marriage, which was the propagation of children.

"It has also created an unemployment problem in the State of New York. There are 150,000 men and women unemployed, and on the other hand there are 175,000 married women employed in the State today."

The bill would tax the earnings of any married woman engaged in industrial trade or professional work where the income of the husband is in excess of $2000. A tax of 20 per cent of the net earnings of the wife would be paid, with an exemption allowed of $500 for each minor child.

HIGHER POLICE, FIREMEN DEATH FUNDS SOUGHT

District Attorney William J. Foley, former Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn, legislators, chiefs of fire departments and many others appeared today before the Committee on Pensions at hearings on bills providing sufficient annuities for families of firemen and policemen killed in performance of duty.

District Attorney Foley, who was the first speaker, said he believed everyone agreed with him that $600 a year was very meagre.

"When the limit of $600 was placed," he said, "it meant considerable but today it means little to a family. The city of Boston is willing to go as high as $2000 in the case of firemen, and I feel the same amount should apply to policemen."

Fire Capt. John J. Kelly of Lawrence told of being in the Massachusetts General Hospital from the effects of a fall. In the next bed was a painter who had been there a year and whose family was being compensated under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

"All I was entitled to was $1 a day," said the captain, "although I worked for the city of Lawrence and the painter for a private concern. And yet the State forced that private concern to take care of his family."

Former Fire Commissioner Glynn said he felt it was a crying shame that families of firemen killed in performance of duty have become objects of charity when the head of the home was taken, and the same is true of the police.

Other proponents who spoke were:

Representatives Jones of Peabody, Chief Engineer of Cambridge; Senator Harrington; Medical Referees Thomas F. Griffin, James S. Jones; Representatives Edward J. Powers, George L. Johnson, Senator Kidder, W. F. Thomas, William F. Doherty, Representative Brooks, Lawrence M. Tarbox, Fire Chief Saunders of Lowell, Daniel B. Tierney, Arlington, James J. King and Raymond W. Skinner.

GALES KILL 8 AS THEY SWEEP EAST

ROARING WINDS CAUSE LOSS OF MILLIONS

Eight persons dead, two of them in Boston and one in Leominster, scores are injured and property damage reaching into the millions is reported as toll is being taken today of the greatest wi ixtorm that has swept the East in recent years.

Heading northard, the storm centered today in Quebec, where a furious blizzard disrupted communication and transportation.

Private Walter Pratt of Company B, 12th Infantry, assigned to special duty on the government ship Batchelder, was swept from the deck in Boston Harbor and drowned. Soldiers were assigned to search for his body. Pratt was the son of Mrs. Alice Pratt of Bowdoinham, Me.

An unidentified man, hurled to the street at Massachusetts and Huntington avenues, received a fractured skull when his head hit the car tracks. His body is at the southern mortuary.

At Leominster, Albert E. Magnon 35, of Hamilton street, was killed by a train. He failed to hear the train's approach as he drove over the Hamilton crossing in the howling gale.

At Syracuse, N. Y., a man was killed when his auto brakes locked and the wind sent his car over an embankment.

A wall crashing down at Camden, N. J., killed a worker underneath. At Scranton, Pa., another man was killed when a barn door whirled away from its hinges.

A huge smokestack at Bloomsburg, Pa., was levelled by the wind and caused another death as it struck a man in its descent.

COSGRAVE PAID HIGH HONOR BY UNIVERSITY

Washington, Jan. 26 (A.P.)—Loaded with the official honors which the nation's capital bestows upon visiting executives, President Cosgrave of the Irish Free State today welcomed another honor that has been accorded only twice before in history.

After a brief visit with Secretary of Labor Davis and a private luncheon at his hotel, the Irish President's program took him later to Catholic University to receive an honorary degree of doctor of laws. Only two other honorary degrees have been conferred by the university, one of them being bestowed upon King Albert of Belgium.

The assurance that nothing but a friendly feeling could exist between the laboring people of America and Ireland was given President Cosgrave today by a group of labor leaders.

The meeting was arranged by Secretary Davis. A letter from President Green of the A. F. of L. was read in which he expressed regret that he was unable to meet Mr. Cosgrave and welcomed him to this country.

Mr. Cosgrave's day will conclude with a dinner at the home of the British Ambassador, and tomorrow he will leave for Philadelphia.

The President is showing no ill effects from the strenuous social round his visit has entailed.

GIRL IN ATTACK CASE WARNED BY JUDGE

"Keep your troubles out of this court unless you want to prosecute your complaints," said Judge Connolly in Brighton Court today as Eleanor Laham of Radnor road, Brighton, asked to have an attack charge dismissed following her complaint against Fred Sebbagg of Pleasant street, West Roxbury.

Miss Laham figured in the Romeo and Juliet runaway love affair last Summer with George Laham of West Roxbury, no relation. A charge of abduction against the youth was subsequently dropped.

Sebbagg was engaged to Eleanor for a year, but following the "elopement" the girl stated she would not marry him, but stood by her namesake.

The alleged attack was said to have taken place at Commonwealth avenue and Wade street.

Eleanor, with other members of her family were in court today when her counsel asked that the complaint be dropped.

"What you need is a police department and court all for yourself," Judge Connolly stated as he granted the request. "There will be no more dismissals," he ordered.

"NEEDS WHOLE COURT!"

KEDROFF QUARTET INTERESTS SOCIETY, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Give Concert This Evening to Aid Fund for Education of Exiled Russian Youth.

IF A SMART SPONSORSHIP IS tantamount to success, as so many consider it, then is this evening's concert by the Kedroff quartet at Symphony Hall destined to gleam brightly in the philanthropical scheme of things. Dignified dowagers, majestic matrons and ultra-fashionable young married women are down on the sponsor list in a profusion most flattering to those concerned in the outcome. And the group so vitally interested in the Society for the "Education of Russian Youth in Exile," is enrolled to a man, and to a woman.

THE EQUIVALENT OF MANY Russian roubles should come to repose in the funds of the committee, from the concert. Not, of course, the roubles of today; but as it was long before there was necessity for Mr. Thomas Whittemore and his confreres to form such a society; when Russian youth of the higher orders was absorbing education in its own Muscovy or at foreign centres of learning; before it was scattered over the wide world and into its four corners. In exile.

WHERE SUMMER REIGNS

Mrs. DeWitt Elwood of Miami and Mrs. Leonard Dunn of Boston find the boardwalk of the Hotel Pancoast, at Miami Beach, the sunniest of spots for a morning of leisure.

MRS. GARDINER DAVIS, MRS. JOHN W. BARTOL, MRS. PAUL REVERE FROTHINGHAM, Mrs. Edward M. Pickman, Mrs. Roger Wolcott, Miss Katharine P. Loring, Miss Evelyn Sears, Miss Sylvia Warren, Miss Mary C. Wheelwright, Edward Jackson Holmes, John P. Moors, Charles Sumner Bird, Jr.; Richard B. Hobart, Fletcher Steele and others equally portentous in the social scheme are on the list. Of the Kedroffs, press and public, at home and abroad, speak in most glittering terms. Crowned heads approve them. London's elite acclaims them, Gotham's fashionables was enthusiastic, and Boston awaits them eagerly.

MRS. THOMAS MOTLEY, JR., IS INTENDING, SO I HEAR, TO join the foreign exodus that gets under way with great impetus immediately the last high note of the grand opera season has died out on the February air. Mrs. Motley is going to Italy, and leaves Boston about February 11. She will be away some weeks. And beside Italy, other Continental countries have place on her interesting itinerary, she being a cosmopolite with friends everywhere.

GIVING THE SMART WORLD SOMETHING TO DO ON ITS Saturday morning, and at the same time doing well for a worthy cause, is the plan whereby Mrs. Henry Channing intends to enrich the Household Nursing Association's strong box. Mrs. Channing has taken the enormous ballroom of the Hotel Statler, and presents therein, on next Saturday morning, some marvellously interesting motion pictures taken in the heart of the African jungles by a big game hunter, and as an added attraction the hunter in question gives a talk.

MAJOR A. RADCLYFFE DUGMORE IS THE HUNTER AFTER BIG game who brings his pictures to town himself. And who speaks about them and his travels so illuminatingly? Indeed, the superlatives trip off the tongue in profusion whenever Association potentates speak of the pictures, as they do on every occasion, since each desires an enormous audience to insure an enormous financial return. Mrs. Moses Williams is one of the Association leaders, and there are many others of like social importance interested in the cause.

PLOWING ITS WAY WESTWARD ON A ROUND-THE-WORLD TRIP, the steamship Belgenland has reached the sun-kissed Hawaiian Islands. Miss Grace Caswell, of Keene, N. H., and Boston, is a passenger on the world-girdling journey. Friends in "The Islands" made Miss Caswell's stay one continuous round of water sports and frivolities. And a round, full moon did its very best to add beauty to scenes already exquisite.

BRIDGE AND TEA, TO BENEFIT THE TIDE OVER LEAGUE, are double attractions laid before devotees for the afternoon of January 30 at the Hotel Somerset. Bridge in its finer manifestations never fails to draw a crowded ballroom—the lure of the game is a magnet without peer. So financial returns to the League should be pleasingly heavy. Mrs. William P. Lyle, Mrs. Charles P. Davidson, Mrs. L. Eugene Emerson and Miss Mary Irving Husted are arranging the affair. Mrs. Lyle, at the Hotel Somerset, may be reached for tickets.

SHOULD MISS KATHERINE DODGE, DAUGHTER OF THE ROBert G. Dodges, decide to plight her troth with Clement Burnhome this Spring, the Raleigh street residence the Dodges art occupying this Winter would be magnificently adapted to a large reception and other wedding festivities. The house, of many stories and great spaciousness, has that enviable situation, commanding the Charles River Basin's myriad lights and ever-changing panorama.

He sent the following telegram to Nolan today:

Nolan's request was made by wire last Friday and the Governor ignored it. Since that time it has been brought to his attention that silence might be taken as meaning consent.

WEET DEATH AS HIGH GALES LASH EAST

the gale lifted a huge sheet of metal on top of him.

FAMILIES IN PERIL.

Two families had a narrow escape when the front of the building at No. 15 Sarsfield street, Roxbury, crashed to the street as scaffolding gave way.

National Guard equipment valued at $40,000 was buried under the wreckage of a storehouse at the Concord, N. H., camp grounds. Gun caissons, trucks and water trailers were included in the equipment.

At the Boston Airport, damage of $8,000 was wrought when the west windows of the Boston Airport Corporation hangars blew in, sending flying glass into the fabric of plane wings stored inside. The mail ship Pitcairn suffered the greatest damage.

Hopkins Academy at Hadley lost a sheet iron roof and skylights in the Smith Agricultural School, Northampton, crashed in with the wind.

Plate glass estimated at more than $250,000 was reduced to splinters in New York city alone, while damage from the same cause was reported from nearly every city in the East.

Temperature drops followed in the wake of the storm, the maximum being reported from Greenville, Me., where the mercury toppled from 42 to 2 above zero. Boston experienced a drop from 48 to 24 in the twenty-four hours.

In the Province of Quebec snow, accompanied by a fifty-mile gale, disorganized train and telephone service, while persons there for Winter sports were practically snowed under and kept to their hotels.

GOING TO BE COLDER.

The weather man promised even colder weather late today and tomorrow, along with his revelation that the entire country, with the exception of the northern storm area, is back to Winter normalcy. An area of warmth seems to be forming over Texas, he reported, with the probability that it might gather strength for the move eastward.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Fair and colder tonight and Friday. Decreasing westerly winds.

BAY STATE MEN WORK ON SHORT WAVE LENGTHS

Washington, Jan. 26.—Intensive research in short wave radio communication by American amateurs and private scientists, as well as the big corporations, was initiated today by the Federal Radio Commission's announcements that hundreds of experimental licenses for use of high frequency channels are pending.

No action is likely until the requirements of the army and navy in these channels are determined and a report made to the commission.

Extensive investigation is contemplated by the American Radio Relay League of Hartford, Ct., which represents nearly 20,000 amateurs. An application for an experimental 500-watt license for a station at Hartford has been filed.

IN UNEXPLORED FIELD.

The Radio League contemplates a study of the band from ½ to 50 meters. The investigation will be headed by Francis E. Handy, communication manager of the organization. The wavelength spectrum under five meters virtually is an unexplored field.

The amateurs, badly used by the allocations of the International Radiotelegraph convention hand cast aside by the big interests at the recent short wave hearings of the Federal Radio Commission, are now forced into a frequency band so far unexplored.

So far no practical use has been found for the ultra-high frequencies. The amateurs, however, who are nightly in communication with unseen friends in every quarter of the globe, probably will develop the new channels. This section of the spectrum is regarded as one of great possibility.

BAY STATE EXPERIMENTS.

Another experimental license is sought by Reginald A. Fessenden, of Chestnut Hill, Mass. Fessenden, an inventor, asked for a 500-watt point-to-point license. In setting forth his qualifications, Fessenden declared he had invented the wireless telephone and "other important devices which are at present being suppressed by the radio trust."

An application was made by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for a short wave license for portable use in New England on from five to 200 meters, and another to be located at Woburn, operating on from 100 to 2,000 meters.

LLOYD GEORGE SEES U. S. S. AMERICAN TRADE LEADER

London, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—One of the deepest impressions received by Lloyd George in Brazil was the success which has attended American merchants men in their efforts to capture South American trade.

There are great opportunities for Britain trade in Brazil and Argentina, he said, but Americans are forging ahead. This, he thought, was partly because the British did not study local needs while the Americans adapted themselves to them. "For the moment all the push comes from Americans," Lloyd George asserted.

FLAMES SWEEP ELKS' CLUB IN BROCKTON

Brockton, Jan. 26.—Fanned by the high wind, flames roared through the magnificent Elks Home at No. 12 North Main street, early today, eating away the beautiful furnishings of the place, while blazing brands menaced the Christian Science Church and the Porter Church, both wooden buildings, directly across the street.

Two alarms were necessitated by the blaze, the fire authorities fearing the wind in the congested section of the city. An estimate of the loss placed it at $50,000.

The Elks' Home was formerly the Daniel S. Howard mansion, one of the show places of Brockton. The interior of the building is finished almost entirely in mahogany, great staircases of this expensive wood winding through the structure. The Elks paid nearly $150,000 for the estate and had increased its value by their own additions to the furnishings.

Nobody was in the building when the blaze was discovered, and the cause of the fire is still undetermined.

He Would Wed Prisoner, Keep House in Jail

San Quentin., Cal., Jan. 26 (I.N.S.).—Romance today cheered the drab prison life of Mrs. Genevieve Paddleford, internationally known divorcee.

As she sat in her cell at San Quentin Penitentiary, where she is serving a term for defrauding a Carmel modiste, a sweetheart of hers entered. He is Dr. F. L. K. Silzey of Universal City, who has been courting Mrs. Paddleford through the walls.

What Dr. Silzey and the famous prisoner talked about was not divulged, but when the "mail order" fiance emerged from the woman's cell, he pleaded with Warden James B. Holohan to find some legal means that would enable him and Mrs. Paddleford to marry and take up life together within the grim walls of the prison.

"Just a couple of rooms, where we can live together in all we want," the strange sweetheart told the warden.

Dr. Silzey, a former associate of Dr. George E. Paddleford, the prisoner's divorced husband, declared he was in possession of a confession that would clear Mrs. Paddleford. He said he had retained five attorneys and appealed to Governor Young.

their shadowing of the Fall-Sinclair trial jurors.

Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, will appear next Tuesday before the Senate committee in its investigation of the operations of the Continental Trading Company, Limited.

Stewart so advised his personal counsel, L. L. Stephens, today. He cancelled engagements he had in Mexico City that he might appear before the Senate committee as it requested.

Blocked in its efforts to bring some of its most important witnesses to Washington, the oil committee is preparing to reach across the Canadian border in its search for light on the operations of the Continental Trading Corporation, organized by oil men after the leasing of Teapot Dome.

The committee has decided to ask Vice-President Dawes to appoint a commission to go to Canada and question Henry S. Osler, president of the Continental Company, which was incorporated in the Dominion.

However, Osler is said to be in Europe now.

ORDERED TO TESTIFY

The committee's interest in the Continental Company arises from the fact that its profits of about $5,000,000, made almost over night in purchase and sale of oil, were invested in Liberty bonds, and that $232,000 worth of these same bonds later were turned over by Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, to former Interior Secretary, Albert B. Fall in exchange for an interest in Fall's New Mexico ranch. The committee very much wants to know what became of the rest of the $5,000,000.

Osler's deposition was sought by special government oil counsel during the trial of the civil suit for recovery of Teapot Dome reserve, but he declined to testify.

The Canadian courts have ruled Osler must testify on demand by the United States courts, but as understood here that ruling does not require him to appear before a Senate commission.

Stewart is one of those being brought before the committee in its resumption of the Teapot Dome inquiry to determine what became of the Canadian concern's profits, some $12,000 of which have been traced from Harry F. Sinclair, Teapot Dome lessee, to Albert B. Fall.

The chief development in the case has been the testimony of M. T. Everhart, Fall's soninlaw, and the man who carried Sinclair's payments to Fall.

It said so far as he knew Sinclair had no papers to show that he had purchased a third interest in Fall's ranch holdings with the $235,000 payments and he would have to rely on Fall's word and that of Everhart to claim possession.

BIG BOND PURCHASE

The committee gained an idea of the extent of Sinclair's financial operations from Harold W. Kennell, secretary and treasurer of the Hyva Corporation, Sinclair's personal company.

The corporation, whose stockholders are Sinclair, his wife and mother, began in 1922 with $26,000 paid-in capital, and in October of that year took over $17,625,500 of the stock of the Mammoth Oil Company, the Sinclair concern organized to lease the Teapot Dome Reserve.

Hyva entries showed that in October, 1923, Liberty Bond blocks of $3,054,165, $2,485,313 and $1,858,249 were purchased. Two bond sales recorded were $99,500 on January 15, 1924, and $981,125 on March 17 of that year. No record was kept of the bond serial numbers.

HOW BUSINESS COSTS ARE CUT TOLD BY FILENE

Co-operative research is the cheapest and most necessary form of modern business insurance, the Northeastern Retail & Lumbermen's Association was told today at their convention in the Hotel Statler by Edwin S. Smith, secretary to A. Lincoln Filene, chairman of the research committee of the New England Council.

"Industrial research," said Mr. Smith, "simply means finding the best methods for keeping down costs and increasing sales. The newest form of industrial research is co-operative research, that is, by trade associations or by smaller groups of firms in the same line of business. A recent survey shows some ninety trade associations in the United States which conduct co-operative research.

"A powerful factor making for co-operative research is the competition between industries. This interindustry competition has led many trade associations to adopt the policy of fair exchanges or information of best practices among their members.

"When the different units of an industry start revealing facts about the way they conduct their business, it is discovered that trade secrets which have been zealously guarded for years are too frequently nothing but antiquated methods which are a hindrance rather than a help to good business. As a result newer methods founded on research quickly supplant the trade secrets, to the great good of all concerned."

4,000,000 DESTITUTE IN CHINESE FAMINE AREAS

Shanchoi, China, Jan. 26 (A.P.)—Foreign reports from the province of Shantung and Chihli say that the famine areas there are suffering increased difficulties and it is now estimated that 4,000,000 persons are destitute and in a state of semi-starvation.

The China International Famine Relief Committee at Pekin has appealed to the American China Famine Fund Committee in Shanghai seeking $2,000,000 in gold as an initial fund.

STATE'S LABOR BOARD HIT AS 'INEFFICIENT'

Charges of "inefficiency" against the State Department of Labor and Industries were today hurled with the legislative Committee on State Administration by representatives of the Massachusetts branch American Federation of Labor.

The attack was led by the Federation's president, John Van Vaenewyck, while advocating a bill calling for the appointment of a special commission to investigate the department.

He claimed that the department has failed to act on many cases of unhealthy working conditions which had been brought before it, clearly in violation of the law.

Opposes Pay Raise for Mayor Quinn, Now in South

The fact that Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge is now sojourning at Palm Beach, and that he has an automobile and chauffeur, was offered as an argument against increasing his salary from $5,000 to $10,000, at a hearing before a legislative committee today. The argument was made by David D. Lonergan of Cambridge in opposing a bill of City Solicitor Peter J. Neilligan.

Isaac T. Haddock, representing the Kendall Square Business Men's Association, Senator Kidder, Francis J. Lehan and Charles J. Rhea favored increases for both the mayor and councillors of Cambridge. Senator Kidder said he thought the matter should be submitted to the people of Cambridge at the next State election.

REFUSE VISA TO NEW 'BRIDE' OF CHALIAPIN

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.)—Curiosity developed today over the marital affairs of Feodor Chaliapin, Metropolitan Opera star, on receipt of news that his wife had been refused a visitor's visa by the American consulate in Paris.

Chaliapin, when he returned to this country on January 11 after obtaining a divorce in Moscow from his first wife, denied he had married again and would not admit that he was going to, although he intimated there might be a prospective bride somewhere about.

When asked the name of the prospective bride he said gentlemen do not discuss such things. Asked when the wedding would take place, he replied: "That, too, is a secret."

INTERVENTION DENOUNCED AT HAVANA

Havana, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—The matter of intervention by one country in the internal affairs of another was before the Pan-American Congress for discussion today.

It was not possible to denounce all such intervention, a report dealing with the subject declared. The report was explained by Dr. Victor Maurtua of Peru before its presentation to the committee on public international law, for which he is the reporter.

Dr. Maurtua urged the subjects included in the first two chapters of the recommendations for the codification of international law, penned by the jurists' conference in Rio Janeiro, last April, should be made the subject of a general declaration instead of being incorporated in a treaty.

These chapters define the various basic legal conceptions of such law. They also include the articles:

"No State may intervene in the internal affairs of another."

Dr. Maurtua's report argued that according to modern conceptions of international law, a nation's sovereignty is somewhat subjected to restrictions imposed by constantly growing international customs.

NOT ALWAYS POSSIBLE.

Nations in fact, he said, are interdependent and therefore it was not possible definitely and flatly to denounce all intervention of one country in the internal affairs of an other.

The report, however, denounced intervention as a general rule. It maintained that among the fundamental principles of international law are independence and the right of all countries to grow strong and flourish undisturbed. Both these precepts, the report said, were only valid if they were accompanied by behavior on the part of the country in question in accordance with the rules of international comity.

The principle of recognizing de facto governments under certain conditions was also upheld. These conditions were: If the Government promised stability, continued effective and remained trustworthy to international obligations.

TRADE AVIATION.

The committee on communications had before it amendments suggested by Mexico to the draft treaty on commercial aviation. Their amendments appeared to delegates to introduce the possibility of discrimination between national and foreign planes on the part of any government.

The Mexicans would allow governments to designate those zones over which, for military reasons, all foreign planes and national ones engaged in international services could be excluded from flying. The draft treaty recognized the right to establish such zones, but specifically mentioned that both national and foreign machines, without distinction or exceptions, would have to be excluded.

The Mexicans also would halt all international flyers at the frontier under an agency providing the government should supervise all entries and exits of planes.

"Improve Americans!"

Slogan at Havana

Havana, Jan. 26.—Measures designed to improve the American of the species throughout the new world will be recommended to the attention of the 21 republics by the sixth Pan-American Conference under a report being drafted today by the Commission on Social Problems.

The measures are based upon the findings of the foremost American authorities on eugenics and hygiene as prepared at the meeting in Havana last month of the first new world conference on these subjects.

The program has two phases:

First, the improvement of the peoples already living in the Americas.

Second, the selection abroad of only such immigrants as will strengthen rather than weaken the mental, moral and physical fibers of the American peoples.

SEEK KIP RHINELANDER FOR SEPARATION SUIT

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Copies of a summons and complaint in a separation suit brought by Mrs. Alice Jones Rhinelander against Leonard Kip Rhinelander have been placed in the hands of the sheriff of New York County with the request that they be served. The sheriff's office, however, said they had no idea as to Rhinelander's whereabouts.

400 HENS IMPERILLED BY FIREBUG IN REVERE

Samuel Poust, one of the proprietors of the Crescent Live Poultry Company, No. 5 Shirley avenue, Revere, reported to the police of that city today that an attempt had been made to burn up more than 400 fowls in his establishment. Poust said he found a bag of oil-soaked rags, which had been thrust in a window, and declared that the walls were scorched. An investigation is being made.

Countess Mercati is the daughter Count Alexander Mercati, once Lo Chamberlain to King George o Greece.

HARD ARTERIES

Hardening arteries indicate high blood pressure, which means that the blood in the heart and blood vessels is under too great a tension —a condition which may end life suddenly.

High blood pressure, indicated by hard arteries, heart palpitation, dizziness and difficulty in breathing, is the penalty of our abnormal habits of living. We place too great a strain on the vital organs, especially the liver. The liver becoming "limp" or sluggish, fails to cleanse the blood of the toxic poisons formed in food waste. The whole system then becomes toxic, with stomach, kidneys, heart and blood vessels affected.

It is generally recognized that the liver occasionally needs a little help. There is nothing better for this, as medical men know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall has been found to be a great stimulant for the liver. The genuine, pure ox gall is to be had, dainty and tasteless, in the form of Dioxol tablets. Each tablet represents 10 drops of pure ox gall and costs less than 2c at good druggists. To be sure of getting the genuine, look for the name Dioxol and picture of ox's head on the package.

JONES OF TEXAS FOR VICE-PRESIDENT WITH AL SMITH

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.)—Alfred E. Smith for President and Jesse Jones of Houston, Tex., for Vice-President was the presidential ticket discussed in some Democratic circles here today.

The boom for Jones as a running mate to New York's Governor developed at a beefsteak dinner at the National Democratic Club and followed receipt of word from Governor Dan Moody of Texas that he positively would not be a candidate for either President or Vice-President, and did not want his name discussed. Jones is director of finance of the Democratic National Committee.

HUSBAND TELLS OF TRAILING MRS. DOANE

The story of a husband in detective role, was told today in Dedham Probate Court when George B. Doane, husband of Mrs. Maude A. Doane went under cross examination with the resumption of the separate support case brought by the wife.

Mrs. Doane named Mrs. Florence Demerare as the "other woman" and Doane cited Charlie sO. Tate the other man. Doane testified to a period between March and May, 1927, when he spied on his wife in company with the head of the Crawford Detective Agency.

Q.—Where were you at the time you say you were in an auto trailing Mrs. Doane? A.—In Reservoir Road.

Q.—In whose auto were you? A.—Mr. Crawford's.

SAW TATE ENTER.

Q.—Where did you see Mr. Tate first that evening? A.—I saw him enter the living room of Mrs. Doane's apartment. He took off his coat.

Q.—How was Mrs. Doane dressed? A.—In a red garment with blue sleeves.

Q.—Were all the curtains raised? A.—I wouldn't say all, but enough to see them.

Q.—There is no question but what you saw Mrs. Doane and Tate? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was there anything to obstruct the view? A.—I don't recall anything.

Q.—When those shades were drawn did you observe the lights were out?

The witness here referred to a notebook and read, "Shades down and 20 minutes the lights went out. Stayed out half an hour."

TATE LEFT AT 12:05.

Again Doane referred to his notes and read, "Saw Mrs. Doane and Tate through kitchen window, where one shade was not tightly drawn."

Consulting the notes again, he read: "Tate left apartment at 12:05 and picked up garage man at Beaconsfield garage and returned to his hotel."

Q.—Have you no recollection other than Tate entering the apartment? A.—I saw him enter the living room.

Q.—Did you use binoculars? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you couldn't tell who the man was? A.—No.

Q.—Did you know what he was doing? A.—He appeared to be sitting in the right-hand corner of the living room.

Q.—Where was Mrs. Doane? A.—With him or near him.

SON, 5, BRANDS HIS FATHER SLAYER

Philadelphia, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Faced by his four and a half-year-old son, Peter, Fred Engelhardt, 42, a baker, broke down and confessed, police said, to killing his wife, Mrs. Barbara Engelhardt, 36, who was found strangled in bed early today.

For five hours Engelhardt insisted a burglar killed his wife, claiming $8 was missing. After persistent questioning, the police brought in the child. Police stood around father and son.

"Peter, who killed mommy?" asked the father.

"You killed mommy," the boy is alleged to have replied.

"I killed her? How?"

"You hit her on the head and choked her and then put her on the bed."

There was a moment's silence and then a policeman took the little boy from the room.

Engelhardt said he and his wife had quarreled.

John D. Explains Why He Cut Out 2 Holes of Golf

Ormond Beach, Fla., Jan. 26.—Probably John D. Rockefeller only gave his caddy a nickel instead of the regular shiny new dime here, because he dropped two holes from his daily round. The master of millions was quick to announce, however, that he had shortened his match with Fr. T. J. Gbmers not because he was beginning to feel the weight of his 89 years, but because he had arisen early in the morning to look over his Winter gardens with a landscape gardening expert.

THOMPSON FOES BOMB HOMES IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Terrorists opened fire on the city administration today with dynamite bombs, exploding them almost simultaneously against the homes of two of Mayor Thompson's close political aides.

One bomb, carrying an unusually large quantity of dynamite, tore away a portion of the residence of Charles C. Fitzmorris, city comptroller and former chief of police. The other smashed windows in the home of Dr. William H. Reid, commissioner of public service during an earlier Thompson administration.

In both instances the bombs were tossed from a closed car. Fitzmorris, his wife and their 10-year-old son, were in the living room on the second floor. They were unhurt.

In a few minutes came report of the Reid bombing on Garfield boulevard. Although the bomb exploded near a building two doors from the Reid residence police saw in the two bombings a close connection.

Police learned that the first floor of the place where this occurred is occupied by John P. Allen candidate recently for alderman. Allen was the target of a bomb during his unsuccessful aldermanic campaign and moved to the Garfield boulevard address, he explained, to escape his enemies.

Detectives regarded the bombings as retaliatory measures by gangsters who have been harassed by the administration and in many instances ordered to leave town.

SMITH FAMILY DENIES ANY DEAL WITH KIDNAP GANG

from individual cranks demanding ransom, the largest amount demanded in any instance being $2500.

"We have never seen any demand for $10,000 and we cannot account for such reports that greatly annoy the family."

Said Major Hammond: "Kidnaping reports should be denied at once with greatest emphasis. There is nothing to warrant them in our possession or in any report that has reached us.

DEMANDS FROM CRANKS

"Every ransom demand received has been submitted to experts for analysis and they reported them the work of amateurs and cranks with nothing to back up their demands.

"We were satisfied of this ourselves as the very nature of the communications proved it, but we wished the judgment of men trained in that direction. All the letters say the writers have information that they will furnish for varying amounts, and the largest demand received has been for $2,500. We have no knowledge of any larger amount asked.

"Also every letter has been from an individual with no indication of a clique or gang.

"What is most important, not one has made any attempt to prove to us he has actual information of the whereabouts of the girl and that something always done in an abduction.

NO GANG INVOLVED

"Persons actually possessing knowledge would not allow the days to drag on without proof. Most of the communications are so frothy that they are unsigned and contain no address, and I wish to deny with all possible emphasis any dealings with any gang."

In her preparatory course at Milton Academy Miss Smith showed an unusual aptitude for the French language and she chose French as one of her freshman courses at Smith. Evidence tending to support the theory that Miss Smith went away of her own volition instead of being abducted was furnished by President William Allan Neilson of Smith College when he admitted that she had recently used as a theme for a thesis the runaway article, which was among her compositions while a student at Milton Academy.

President Neilson admitted that Miss Smith turned this subject in to her English instructor as late as November 2. This considered inchoate important by investigators in that it indicates how tenaciously she clung to the idea of running away if she considered provocation warranted.

Relatives and others were inclined to belittle the significance of her earlier runaway composition with the argument that she was merely indulging in childish reminiscences, but the fact that she repeated the subject almost along identical lines as a college freshman in her eighteenth year is an index of a deep rooted idea.

It was contended today as a straw pointing the direction of her impulse when her mood became incredibly more depressed.

This theory was given added support by admissions made by her aunt and governess in New York that the girl was a victim of self-pity, a dangerous mental symptom that was reflected in her reticent manner and lack of confidence.

President Neilson refused to make public the text of Miss Smith's second runaway thesis. It might prove illuminative to compare it with the earlier composition written just before her graduation from Milton Academy. The fact that she had revamped the idea for her English

Frances "Sensitive Soul," in Hiding, Says Mother

Northampton, Jan. 26.—"I am sure Frances is still alive," said Mrs. St. John Smith today in the first public statement, excepting two letters addressed to her missing daughter, she has made in two weeks of search for Frances St. John Smith.

"She was a delicate, sensitive soul," the grieving mother declared. "I believe she ran away because she felt certain she would fail in her mid-year examinations. I am sure she is hiding somewhere and that we will hear from her.

"I must keep up my courage."

teacher here was revealed by President Neilson in denying the existence of a thesis entitled "Life and Death"

"I have had all of Miss Smith's themes brought to my office," said President Neilson, "and personally read every one of them. Therefore I am prepared to say with all possible emphasis that Miss Smith never wrote any paper on 'Life and Death' or any subject resembling it, but she did rewrite the subject in which she discussed her impulse to run away."

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications.

PUBLISHER ACCUSED IN AUTHOR'S SUICIDE

Rome, Jan. 26 (I.N.S.)—The executive committee of the Publishers' Federation decided today to make an inquiry into the sensational charges of the literary newspaper Radino that Enrico Solgari committed suicide because of poverty whereas his publisher grew rich through royalties upon his novels.

The accusation is levelled against Signor Bemporad, publisher of Solgari's novels. He is alleged to have paid the writer only $500 a year for his services. Solgari's books had enormous sales. Solgari, in desperation over his poverty, committed suicide, leaving his family destitute, the latter half of December.

MORE MILLS IN SOUTH REDUCE OPERATIONS

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Additional print cloth mills in the South are operating on reduced production schedules, according to the information of Walker D. The reduced schedules involve the closing down from Fridays at noon to the following Monday mornings. The reductions began in the latter half of December.

MARINES FIGHT WAY INTO HILLS AFTER SANDINO

Managua, Jan. 26 (I.N.S.)—Ten rebels have been killed in skirmishes with United States marines and native constabulary since the marines advanced on General Sandino's former headquarters at El Chipote, according to information received here today. Aquiles Moncada, son of General Moncada, at the head of 40 mounted rebels, has seized and looted the town of Trinidad.

Managua, Jan. 26 (A.P.)—American marines are advancing slowly and cautiously up the slopes of El Chipote, once the stronghold of the rebel general, Augustine Sandino.

Wherever trenches and fortifications mark signs of the rebel occupation of the 5,000-foot mountain—were found they were destroyed by the marine column under Major Archibald Young.

The object of the marines now is to drive Sandino followers from the populated districts into uninhabitable and isolated regions, where it is impossible to get food and ammunition.

Enormous difficulties confront the marines in their campaign to end the revolt, but they will be overcome, Major-General John A. Lejeune, commandant of the corps, believes.

General Lejeune returned here by airplane from the scene of the recent fighting in Nueva Segovia. He apparently was well pleased with the progress the marines had made.

"I was never prouder of any body I ever met or have ever known," he said. "Every American who is proud of being an American should be proud of the American marines in Nicaragua."

"The morale of the marines is high. There is no discontent. There are no complaints.

"The boys are well liked by the Nicaraguans. At every place I visited Nicaraguans greeted me cordially. All professed the greatest appreciation of what the United States is doing for them.

PROPOSALS TO END HAVERHILL SHOE STRIKE

Haverhill, Jan. 26.—A series of proposals which it is hoped will result in bringing peace to the local shoe industry, were evolved today following a three-hour conference called by the Haverhill Citizens' Committee in the office of Mayor Fred D. McGregor.

Representatives of the manufacturers and the union were present at the conference, the calling of which resulted in officials of the State Department of Labor suspending their investigation pending its outcome.

The proposals provide, first that the workers now out, return to their benches on Monday and accept the money received on their last pay day to be paid on account. This was the 1928 wage scale, with reductions of from 10 to 35 per cent, which caused the walkout.

Within six days after their return, committees of three are five to be appointed or elected by both sides to amend the peace pact and to provide for a rehearing of any matter at the request of either side. The committees would also go over such items in the present wage scale as either party may call to their attention.

The unions shall effect a reorganization along lines suggested by their counsel, Attorney Joseph Bearak, and the manufacturers shall amend their articles of organization so as to provide strict accountability of its members to some governing association head.

The proposals will be presented to the manufacturers tomorrow night and to the unions at mass meetings on Saturday.

THREAT TO "GET" CHIEF BARED IN RUM TRIAL

Barnet Wenegat, upholsterer, star witness for the government in the trial of ex-Chief of Police Arthur Scholl of Millis on liquor conspiracy charges, threatened to "get" Scholl, according to testimony given in Federal Court today by Edward Stafford, Millis farmer. "Wenegrat told me," Stafford testified, "he could get no protection from Scholl and that his assistant, Sullivan, was blood and thunder on bootleggers. He told me he would have to get Scholl and Sullivan out of town before there would be any chance of setting up a moonshine business."

Wenegrat had testified he did pay the ex-chief "protection" money in varying sums from $10 to $15 weekly from February to May, 1927.

Mrs. Esther Purrits testified she and her husband sold moonshine in Millis in September, 1926, and paid Scholl $10 weekly. M. Goldberg, indicted with Scholl, pleaded guilty today and a directed verdict of not guilty for Robert Tullin was ordered by Judge James A. Lowell.

GEORGE JESSEL MADE STAR BY TIFFANY

By LUCELLA O. PARSONS

Los Angeles, Jan. 26. — George Jessel, who presented a picture of woe personified when Warner Brothers chose Al Jolson to play in the film version of "The Jazz Singer," has cheered up considerably. He is returning to Hollywood to make a series of two or three pictures for the Tiffany-Stahl productions. You see, there will be no Vitaphone to cause him uneasiness and no chance of another actor coming in and doing a song and dance act.

Tiffany-Stahl plan to star Mr. Jessel in a series of Jewish stories. The first is "The Schlemihl." I hope you can translate it.

Mr. Jessel, perhaps I should explain, was not eliminated from the cast of "The Jazz Singer" because he is not a good actor, but because he asked too much money for the Vitaphone accompaniment.

Courage is always a desirable quality in the movies. That is, if one is sincere in furthering his career. Dr. Ludwig Berger, who was responsible for "Variety," the Fox Company, found he could not conscientiously direct a comedy selected for him. He, therefore, resigned from the company. All this happened at Christmas time and for a few weeks it looked as if Dr. Berger might have to return to Germany without the American contact he so desired.

To make a long story short, Dr. Berger will direct Mr. Janninge in "Konoert," by Herman Bahr. Naturally, the title will be changed. Dr. Berger is preparing the continuity, while Herr Janninge finishes "The Patriot," his next picture.

Just one month more of freedom and then Mary Astor becomes Mrs. Kenneth Hawks. She and the young supervisor of Fox productions have set Feb. 23 as their wedding day. While it is to be a small wedding, with only the family and intimate friends, Mary will wear the conventional bridal veil and orange blossoms and she will be attended by Dolly Dorothone as her maid of honor. William Hawks will do the best man honors for his brother.

All this information was whispered to me by Miss Astor on the set at the Fox Company, where she is playing a female crook in "Dressed To Kill."

Jed Buell, manager of the West Lake Theatre, is not often moved to express himself about motion pictures. He has so many previews that it has to be a good one, indeed, to get him to talk. "The Patsy," starring Marion Davies, has achieved a record. He sent the following telegram to Nicholas Schenck:

"Previewed tonight Marion Davies in 'The Patsy.' You can be proud of this. One of the greatest pictures ever made. Full of laughs from beginning to end. Destined to be one of the outstanding box office attractions of the year. Audience ate it up tonight. Every exhibitor looking for pictures like this one. Congratulations on this knockout."

Mr. Buell isn't the only one who is talking about "The Patsy." Charlie Chaplin said it is the best comedy of its kind that he had ever seen.

$20,000 LOWELL FIRE DAMAGES TWO STORES

Lowell, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—Two stores in the Middlesex street business section were badly damaged by fire this forenoon with a loss of $25,000. The fire started from a flare-back in the boiler of the Vitaser Toy shop and spread to the Middlesex Supply Co. store.

What is this "YELLOW MASK"?

Will you make this simple test to discard it?

Look at your teeth. Have they a yellowish tinge—appear stained? That is "Yellow Mask."

So unsuccessful have you been in your attempts to remove it that, like others, you have come to believe that yellowish hue is in the enamel—erroneously!

But the truth is you have teeth white as glistening ivory. That ugly, yellowish hue hides in a glassy mask that envelopes the teeth. This mask is known as Calculus. A "liquid cement" in your saliva forms it. Acts like a glue—first sticky, then hard. Ordinary dentifrices usually gloss right over it.

But now dental science can give you those lovely, pearly teeth—often in a few brushings! For it has finally succeeded in incorporating in a tasty, pleasant tooth paste the one substance that positively removes this mask—"Tri-Calcium Phosphate." This magic substance is what your dentist uses to clean teeth. And you know what beauty miracles he works with it!

The name of this new and finer tooth paste is ORPHOS. It cannot harm the softest enamel. Dentists everywhere are recommending it — especially for teeth difficult to whiten. Buy a tube from your druggist or mail coupon below for a 20-Time Tube FREE. Convince yourself that teeth loveliness can now be yours too.

LOOK FOR THIS! Note the "brush cling" when you use ORPHOS—also the utter absence of that nauseating foam.

Gibson to Play for B. C. Against Purple

By JOHN B. GILLOOLY

Larry Gibson, Boston College's star center ice man, will be in the Eagle lineup when they cross sticks with the Holy Cross sextet at the Arena tomorrow night. Gibson has fully recovered from the hand injury received in practice over a week ago.

It is the best news that Coach Foley of B. C. has received

BOUT WORTH A MILLION.

I do not believe that you will question the fact that Sharkey is the only heavyweight in the world who has a chance of defeating Tunney.

"CAN'T PROTECT TUNNEY"

You will be able to protect Tunney as well as Sharkey will, I am sure, remember how you and Sharkey and Tunney signed for a bout at the Garden but both you ducked off the match for fear the Boston contender would ruin the man you were planning to put against Dempsey who was then the champion.

Sharkey finally conceded and was shown a telegram purporting to have been sent by Rickard and declaring that the Sharkey-Risko winner would be matched with Tunney.

Buckley Laughs at Jess McMahon's Hoax

"Remember what I'm telling you now. After Risko, Sharkey will meet Tunney and no one else."

Manager of Jack Sharkey.

A Wife's Meditations

By HELEN ROWLAND

ARE men beginning to be AFRAID of women?

Are they beginning to wake up to the fact that women have so many rights, more privileges and [illegible] as they are?

Every now and then comes a letter from some young man, asking that he will "never, never marry" and thereby put himself [illegible] man's power. Or [illegible] ing that women are [illegible] advocating "man [illegible] art."

Surely this is a sign of the times.

But why all this talk of armament, defense and compulsion? We do not prepare for war unless we fear the enemy.

It sounds like the whistling of a small boy in the dark. It sounds like somebody singing as he passes a graveyard. It sounds like the wailing of the infant when he sees his toys about to be snatched away from him.

But who can blame poor, bewildered man? Not I, bless his fluttering heart!

He sees an empire torn from [illegible] bleeding hands! He sees his [illegible] of intellectual and physical superiority deserting about him.

ANOTHER UNSOLICITED TRIBUTE FOR ALL-BRAN

Good news for sufferers from constipation

Mrs. Kiell [illegible] I write to tell a letter which [illegible] I proved ALL-BRAN a safe [illegible] for constipation. I feel it a voluntary tribute.

[illegible] Jan. 4, 1927
"I have been using [illegible] ALL-BRAN for [illegible] and I [illegible] you how much [illegible] it is a real [illegible] After using it [illegible] necessary [illegible] back to [illegible] on [illegible] me for me to send a copy of it to my mother in Poland, Europe."

Gratefully yours,
Mrs. Anna Kiell,
77 Wolcott Terrace, Newark, N. J.

Perhaps you know what a terrible affliction constipation is. Blighting wherever it thrives. Ruining health. Marring beauty. Causing headaches, back pain, foul breath, loss of sleep—it can lead on to more than forty serious diseases.

But did you know it can be easily relieved by a pleasant cereal food? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring relief. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily, chew it crisp with every meal. Serve with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking. At grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"RINSO saves so much time and work that I use it for my wash and for my other cleaning, too.

"I soak the clothes overnight in the wonderful Rinso suds and they're so easy to wash that about all I have to do is rinse and hang out. And talk about white clothes! Why, even when I boiled them they never turned out nearly as white and sweet as now!

"And when it comes to dishwashing and making the house bright and spotless, there's nothing like Rinso. I use it for the floors, sinks, tiles, woodwork and everything. You surely get your money's worth in a package of Rinso."

...Millions use Rinso. Thousands write us letters like this one, which is from a woman living right around here...

Try these amazing suds next washday!

You never saw such thick, creamy lasting suds as Rinso gives—in hard water or soft. Dirt and stains float right off, and clothes rinse whiter than ever. Even grimy cuffs and edges become snowy with little or no rubbing.

This way saves the clothes; they aren't scrubbed threadbare. Saves the hands, too—they're not in hot suds so long.

SCALP TROUBLE SEVEN YEARS
Hair Came Out Badly. Healed by Cuticura.

"My scalp was dry and covered with pimples and my hair came out badly. It itched so badly that I could not sleep, and when I scratched it, it caused sore eruptions which later scaled over. My hair fell out so that I had very little to comb. I had the trouble about seven years.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after a few treatments I could see an improvement, and my hair did not fall out. I purchased more and now I am healed." (Signed) Mrs. J. O. Carpenter, 195 Elm St., Keene, N. H., July 12, 1927

Dear Sookey

No you dont go kuddin money from a Hospital fund. We cant returne money when we dont know where it come from so put up a bulletin everyday Stewart where we get money though there no assessments.

The treasurer is fired cause he may be throwen of certain Mony an its the same thing except on paper.

The Cracks should auto go from house to house gettin money for the fund even if they have to work for it.

I am going to appoint this commity of five to handle all the Clothes and money donats to be took in. Whereas to wit here from to Mr George Palmer Putnam, Chairman cause he's got a printin press an Commander Fitzhugh Green cause he's got the Navy in back of him. Corey Ford is good penmanship and Doctor Robert Emmet Moran is to be asked about diggin up a hospital

See that people give bigger sums cause I aint satisfied with whats comin in not at all. It should be more.

If they dont come across for the hospital fund Commander Green has my permishun to take a big battle ship an blow up the town. I guess that'll learn people to give more for hospitals. They better not get me roused up cause I'll get a gun an blow up everything unless more money comes for the hospital fund. Ill knock off hole cities

MEDBURY SAYS—

BUSINESS bureaus feel that 1928 will be a banner year in the production of motor cars. The manufacturers predict that for every automobile on the street there will be two pedestrians in a hospital.

SOME thoroughfares are so crowded that the speed cops have to ride on the sidewalk.

A CAT tried to cross a boulevard the other day and lost eight lives.

HE'S saving the other one for the 4th of July.

IT'S now considered old fashioned to be hit by a street car.

LICENSE plates should be carried underneath the automobile so that a pedestrian can take your number while he's lying down.

HENRY FORD is planning to equip his new delivery trucks with overstuffed bumpers.

HE ought to take the shock absorbers off the cars and put them on the general public.

HANK has done wonders with his baby. Lizzie has become a flapper.

THE rattle may be gone, but the sting is still there.

SCIENTISTS, however, claim that the new Ford is not dangerous. It's honk is worse than it's bite.

WHILE the flivver is a beautiful looking car, well-to-do people will continue to be knocked down by Lincolns.

FIFTEEN years ago a pedestrian was a poor man, today he's a genius.

COOK-COOS

FRISBY'S TEETH MAY BE HELD BY WAITRESS

Doctor Dookes, head of the Bureau of Animal Husbandry, who calls upon fossil doctors to be on the lookout for Congressman's teeth.

WASHINGTON — Congressman Frisby today could not affirm or deny that his missing false teeth are being held for ransom by a prominent waitress.

When surrounded by correspondents on the Capitol steps Frisby talked eagerly, but no one could understand him.

Later in the day arrangements were made to have the Congressman accompany the Chief of Police on a tour of second-hand stores to see if the missing bridgework could be identified.

The report that a prominent waitress was holding Frisby's teeth was based on the story of a small boy, who declared he saw a mysterious woman in the public park sulphing shrubbery with a pair of false teeth. When he shot at her with his air rifle, the woman fled.

Care of Babies

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them up half the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered Mrs. Fletcher's Castoria. It is sweet to the taste and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good. And it is so pleasant to take. Taste it yourself, and you'll know why "Children Cry for It."

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at the first sign of colic; when you even suspect the approach of constipation, or diarrhea. Or those many times when wee lad don't know what is the matter. For real sickness call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. See how quickly all fretfulness or wakefulness will cease.

Only one word of warning: the above advice is true of genuine Castoria.* The kind called Fletcher's, bearing Fletcher's signature is genuine—and does not contain opiates or any other drug that can harm your baby. Other preparations may be just as free from harm; the writer does not know as to that, but does know one family whose children will never make the experiment!

*SPECIAL NOTE: With every bottle of genuine Fletcher's Castoria is wrapped a book on "Care and Feeding of Babies" worth its weight in gold to every mother or prospective mother.

PUBLIC OWNED TRANSIT URGED BY FITZGERALD

through West Roxbury into the Dedham.

Construction of a subway in Huntington avenue into and through Brookline.

Construction of a bridge or tunnel between Boston and East Boston.

Erection of Tremont street subway from Park street terminal to Postoffice square or beyond.

"All of these improvements could be easily taken care of with the money that would be saved by public ownership" said the former mayor.

"Everybody agrees that the Elevated structure should be torn down as it is a disgrace to the city of Boston. Everybody says 'Where's the money with which to do it?' I say 'Here is the money.' The South End and Charlestown would become at once new communities if this hideous structure was torn down.

BETTER FOR CHILDREN.

"Plans should be made at once for rapid transit to all points 15 miles out. That would give the people a chance to get into the country and live in decent homes, instead of huddling them in a short area in the city.

"It would be much better for children. There would be a happier home life. It would also lead to the industrial development of Great er Boston as new industries would go to the outlying districts if transportation facilities were adequate. The entire Metropolitan district should be tied in by one transit system. This is no longer a City of Boston problem but one that involves every person living within 15 or 20 miles of the State House.

"Boston's future is bound up in the proper solution of this problem more than in any other thing. The Metropolitan district could very well spend $150,000,000 in the next ten years in building bridges, tunnels and in big street improvements. This sum can be saved by transportation if the title of the Boston Elevated Railway Company is transferred from private to public ownership.

A STRANGLE HOLD.

"I am confident that when Governor Fuller makes a careful study of the situation he will favor public ownership of the Boston Elevated. I don't see any other intelligent way out.

"If the Harriman Act goes through, calling for 10 years more of public control and private ownership the public will be at the mercy of the Elevated stockholders who have an effective veto power over any think that their interests are involved. Governor Fuller is in a situation if this condition of affairs.

"The Legislature passed, a year ago or more, an act to make possible this vitally needed improvement, yet the Mayor of Boston and the Legislature find themselves impotent n view of the power possessed by the private owners of this property.

"In view of the admitted necessity for $10,000,000 of improvements, which can be obtained only from the Elevated stockhold s have a strangle hold on the people. I don't see how any official at the State House can have an but one point of view. I know there are objections to public ownership and public operation and numerous incidents can be cited to show the effect of public peration, but we have public operation now and the act calls for it.

UNVEILED AT BIG REUNION

"Spirit of English High School," the magnificent bronze statue which Daniel Chester French, noted sculptor, created, was presented to the school by Albert H. Wiggin, class of '85 and chairman of directors of the Chase National Bank of New York.

FOX NOW OWNS 356 THEATRES

New York, Jan. 26 (A.P.).—William Fox, one time cloth cutter, today was the second largest theatre owner in the world, purchase of a chain of 307 motion pictures houses in the West having increased his holdings to 356 theatres.

The largest theatre chain is that of the Public Theatres, controlled by the Paramount Corporation.

The acquisition of the huge theatre chain, one of the largest transactions of its kind on record, marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of Mr. Fox in the motion picture industry.

The theatres taken over by him through the Fox Film Corporation are the West Coast Theatres Circuit, Inc., finc 250 motion picture houses in California, Oregon, Washington, Montana and Nevada 50 theatres in the Shea Circuit in Wisconsin and 7 in Chicago. Fox refused to reveal the amount involved in the transaction, but said the deal was for cash.

Fox started in the motion picture business a quarter of a century ago with $1,000.66 saved from his earnings as a cloth cutter. His last spectacular purchase was that of the Roxy Theatre in New York and the Roxy Circuit for $15,000,000.

UNVEIL ENGLISH HIGH STATUE

Students at Boston English High School, the oldest public high school in the country, will receive new inspiration for their work today as they see in its place of honor the splendid bronze statue, symbolic of the "Spirit of English High School," presented by Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of directors of the Chase National Bank of New York, and graduate of E. H. S., in the class of 1885.

The school drill-hall was crowded at the dinner of unveiling when Governor Fuller brought the greetings of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Payson Smith, State commissioner of education, and Jeremiah E. Burke, superintendent of schools of Boston, offered marked tribute to the great school. Mr. Wiggin, cheered by his class and the alumni, presented the statue in simple words and was over F. Downey, headmaster, accepted it.

GAVE '85 CLASS CHEER.

Singing and cheering throughout the evening marked the high spirits of the alumni, and bespoke the loyalty of all for their old school home. An ovation was tendered Miss George W. Wise, 89 years old and the sole member of the oldest class there, of 1865, arose and gave the cheer he had learned 62 years ago.

Another ovation greeted former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, another notable alumnus, when he stood on a chair and sang a verse of his "Sweet Adeline," and the crowded hall stood with him and finished a ringing chorus of the famous song.

The class of 1873, numbering many graybeards and not a few bald heads, grouped and gave the old school cheer, and were followed by class after class, including the senior undergraduates of 1928.

PRESENTED CANE.

James I. Brooks, class of 1866, added his voice to the general singing and cheering. So did Myles P. Carroll, class of 1869. Then the class of 1906, through its president, Harold D Borrison, and its secretary Lindsly B. Schell, announced the presentation of a gold headed cane to Mr. Wise, as the oldest alumna present, to be handed down upon his death to the next oldest forever.

Sanford Bates, State commissioner of corrections, was master of ceremonies.

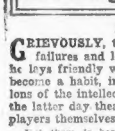
Holbrook Blinn Tops Strong Plymouth Cast

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

GRIEVOUSLY, the ardent patron of the drama deplores its failures and loves to dwell upon them. Stingily, almost he lays friendly words upon its better courses. It even has become a habit, in drawing rooms, night clubs and other assemblies of the intellectuals, to shed tears over such fading arts in the latter day theatre as the gift of speech—the diction of the players themselves.



Holbrook Blinn

Is it there is hope—perhaps it may be only temporary relief—for the troubled patron of the tortured critic. Combining all the good qualities of the theatre, Holbrook Blinn bids you welcome to the Plymouth, where diction is safe, sound and secure, and "The Play's the Thing" a dashing entertainment.

Rarely does it fall to the lot of the playgoer to find the stage so well set and for contented evenings as in Mr. Blinn and his common sense wrested from the smart, polished and thoroughly Continental melees of Ferenc Molnar that makes good drama. Even honest and well meaning reviewers have set prejudices; we have two—Holbrook Blinn and Arthur Byron. There is always ease and facility, quality and authority, whenever you meet either of these excellent gentlemen on the stage.

With all its tickling lustre, its captivating finesse and generally liberal contributions in the form of native humor by P. G. Wodehouse, the comedy would have failed but for the fact that Blinn hands less skilled than those of Mr. Blinn and his companions. For it is frothy thing at best, deliciously amusing, but, still lacking in the more important items that compose our best dramas. Mr. Blinn, himself, is never out of form, for which Herr Molnar has much to be thankful.

Nor was Mr. Blinn left with the entire load revealed upon his ever artistic shoulders. Harry Mestayer, in the unsympathetic role of a strutting actor, detected making love to another man's fiancee won his audience and a medal of honor in a gruelling third act. Mestayer's atonement, presented in fine style, is a longtime audience, alone was worth any reasonable cost.

Robert Fischer ambled through the comedy with fine middle aged simplicity; Martha Gerber, more youthful than gifted, but exceedingly agreeable to any impartial vision, gave gentle aid to unwinding complexities. Gavin Muir, just a blonde youngster, and Ralph Nairn and Claude Kendall met all outstanding requirements.

And through the attending galeties Holbrook Blinn stalked authoritatively; master of poise, of diction and in complete command of every essential of good acting.

Public Ownership

HOW Can It Be Vicious If Public Control Is So Good?

If there was ever a plain case of gentlemen not knowing whether they are standing upon their heads or their heels it has been on exhibition the past few days at the State House.

Here we have the spectacle of gentlemen praising the virtues of public CONTROL, as evidenced in the rehabilitation of the Boston Elevated Railway system, while at the same time they affect to wave aside public OWNERSHIP as something not to be thought of.

As Representative Twohig has complained, the bitterender against public ownership never explains WHY it is vicious, he simply says it is.

One man says public ownership would "throw the road into politics."

But the road IS in politics, has been these ten years. The Public Trustees are selected by the Governor, their nominations confirmed by the Executive Council. If that isn't politics, what is it?

Another says that under public ownership the number of employes would jump 10,000.

Why has there been no such increase in personnel in TEN YEARS of political control?

Still another is certain that under public ownership political pressure would be used to bring about extensions of line and service.

But there are legislators on Beacon Hill who say—and quite properly—that they will vote for no Elevated bill this year which does not take care of their districts; and on Monday the Republican Mayor of Boston served notice that the administration will be "agin" any bill which does not contemplate the extension of the Boylston Street subway into Brighton.

There is no denying that given a continuation of the wise management this property has enjoyed for the past ten years the Elevated under public OWNERSHIP could be made to PAY FOR ITSELF. Under these circumstances the majority leaders on the Hill say that a return of the road to private management is out of the question. PRIVATE management wrecked it. Public CONTROL has brought it back to health and vigor.

It may have been unkind for former Mayor Fitzgerald to remind the committee that under private management Elevated shares fell to 27—yesterday's quotation was 96—that Boston & Maine dropped from 235 to 37, and that the New Haven toppled from 265 to 9—but we observe that no one contradicted him.

Public hearings on the control bill, we read, have been brought to a close. The question appears to be whether public control shall be extended for 15, 10 or only five years.

There appears to be nothing in the present legislative situation which should at all discourage the champion of public ownership. This Legislature is not going to make the new owners of the "El" a gift of millions of dollars taken from the pockets of car-riders. Neither, in our opinion, will any subsequent Legislature do so.

What the representatives of the people should drive for is the immediate extension of transit facilities. The elevated structure should be extended from Everett into Malden, from Forest Hills toward Hyde Park. The subway should be continued from Kenmore Station out as far as Harvard Avenue, from Tremont Street far out in Huntington Avenue.

The urgent question, it seems to this newspaper, is more and improved rapid transit. While under private management the road was falling into decay and hurrying toward bankruptcy Boston was preparing to spread outward. The Greater city has grown tremendously; the Elevated should be made to catch up with it.

And we must all be sympathetic toward gentlemen who find themselves unable to explain how Public Control CAN be such a Good Boy and his twin brother a limb of the Evil One.

Bismarck

WAS He—Carelessly, Heedlessly, Thoughtlessly—the "Founder" of the German Republic?

The distinguished German historian and biographer who is to lecture IN ENGLISH this evening in Jordan Hall, on "Bismarck and the German Republic," is interesting for many reasons.

Unaware of his existence until two years ago, Americans last year bought more than 125,000 copies of Dr. Emil Ludwig's "Napoleon: The Man of Destiny" and 40,000 copies of his "Bismarck: The Story of a Fighter."

Nor were these all; within the same twelvemonth readers on this side of the Atlantic were introduced to the author's "Kaiser Wilhelm" and "Genius and Character."

Never before in the history of book publishing, we are told, has a "serious" writer attained such phenomenal success with FOUR books published within a period so brief.

Perhaps because his early bent was toward the stage, Ludwig DRAMATIZES the figures he selects for his subjects, turning out history and biography which have the charm of romantic fiction.

The career of this newest literary lion, whose "Story of Himself" is printed in Cosmopolitan for February, brings to mind a line from Shakespeare: "There's a divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them how we will." As a student at Heidelberg he actually fled from lectures on history! His mother's people were interested in coal mines. He became the secretary of an uncle who directed the property. He wanted to be a writer. His father forced him into the study of law.

"Some encouragement I received from my acquaintance with the children of Gerhart Hauptmann, who was then rising into fame. I was deeply impressed by his freedom from visible occupation, his country house, the exalted atmosphere that marked his home, with no schedule of hourly tasks to be observed. And though I knew nothing about his plays at that time I made up my mind that I, too, would acquire freedom, an exalted atmosphere and, of course, a country place—that, in other words, I was to become a writer."

The inevitable "girl" came along, they were goaded into a secret marriage—the young lady was not in coal—and "ten years before any film drama existed" they were hunted by detectives all through middle Europe.

The "country house" is on the mountain slope back of

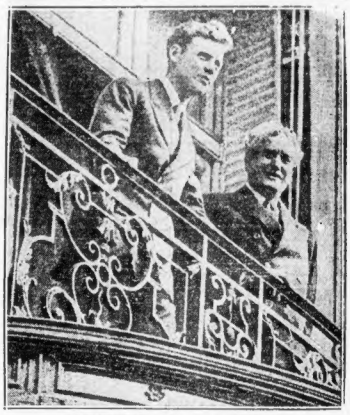
That Wonderful Lindy

He Is What You May Call "Next Day" Man



LINDBERGH ON "THE NEXT DAY"

Lindy flew to Paris all alone last May, amazing the world and showing what American boys can do. You hear every week something about Lindbergh.

Napoleon, told by one of his officers of a good thing he had done, said, "Very good; what did you do THE NEXT DAY?"

Anybody who asked Lindbergh that question would get a satisfactory answer. He ALWAYS DOES SOMETHING THE NEXT DAY.

This picture, printed because it shows such a fine expression on the noble young flier's face, was taken THE NEXT DAY after he had landed in Paris.

He is seen looking at the French crowd, and a little later was hopping into his airplane, flying off to London, then flying to other parts of Europe.

Only the other day, as you know, he flew from the capital of the United States to the capital of Mexico without a stop, 2,000 miles.

He isn't satisfied with what he did today or yesterday—he is always looking for a chance to do something as good or better THE NEXT DAY.

And he sets a fine example to the whole world. Too many of us are inclined after some success to sit down, congratulate ourselves and "let well enough alone."

There is no "well enough" for Lindbergh, and no letting alone.

If a flight to the moon were possible, he would plan it.

And what he does is not done for glory or praise—both bore him. And he doesn't do it for money—he has refused an opportunity to make himself a rich man, actually in the millionaire class.

Lindbergh likes to work. He likes to do something THE NEXT DAY.

He sets us all a good example.

All young men should bear this in mind. Today and yesterday are gone. The only thing that counts is what you do tomorrow, which is THE NEXT DAY.

SINGING HEALTHFUL AS AN EXERCISE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

PEOPLE spend a vast deal of money every year in listening to singing.

But the trouble is they simply listen to it. They are auditors and not singers.

We like to crowd the bleachers, watch base ball and football and tennis games, and we like to go to grand opera and concerts and vaudeville and hear them sing.

But the best part of singing is the reaction upon the singer himself.

We are notoriously bad singers.

We hire choirs in churches to sing for us when we ought to be singing ourselves.

Do it yourself, is the best advice in physical culture.

Let us not have so many things done for us, but do them ourselves, and we will be better off. It may be pleasant to have a masseur or a masseuse work at you, but the best form of exercise is automotive.

Get out and take a walk or play a game or do something that starts the sweat and thus improve the sewage system of the body, something that circulates the blood rapidly.

Exercise should be taken judiciously, of course, but the best form of exercise is mild exercise which you do regularly. Irregular exercise or exercise once in awhile is about as good as none at all.

Many people are constantly making spurts towards physical culture, but spurts are not what we need. We require regularity.

Take any form of physical exercise, any system, for they all embrace about the same points, only adopt some system that will bring the unused muscles of the body into play.

There is no better healthful exercise than singing, provided we do the singing ourselves.

Thank You

A brand new American flag was raised on the staff at Boston City Hall yesterday. Readers of the Boston Evening American who recall an item on this page last Monday will be pleased at the sight of that new banner flying proudly in the breeze.

Boston DAY by DAY

CERTAINLY proof is not lacking to substantiate the belief that modern young women are more robust than those of a generation ago. At the Arena, on Tuesday and Tuesday, may be seen a large group of girls learning to skate. They range from four to sixteen years of age. Everyone is absorbed in learning how to master figure skating. Plain skating they soon learn. Then they study how to achieve the more complicated maneuvers.

* * *

Although we have had little suitable ice outdoors this year, many top notch skaters received their training at the Arena. Mrs. Theresa Weld Blanchard of Brookline has probably held more national and international skating titles than any other American woman. Mrs. Blanchard is a member of the present Olympic team. One reason for her great success is her early start. At the age of four she started her ice career.

* * *

Professor William Yandell Elliott, Harvard lecturer has received a training for politics that contributes greatly to his standing as an authority. During his childhood he was influenced by the work of his father and grandfather, both writers, and authorities in the same field. Elliott served with a commission in the artillery during the World War. He traveled all over Europe in the years following the peace. He capped it off with intensive study at Oxford.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THIS is a true story.

Once upon a time, several people did me wrong. No pitiful little affair, a Regular Dirty Deal. So I hated them.

Now as a Hater I was a steady, conscientious worker. I rose with the lark and hammered away at my hating job hour after hour, taking only fifteen minutes off for lunch. I never slowed up. I did not mind overtime. I love my art.

Nor was I content with spending all my own time and strength on my Hate. I thought my friends should spend their time, too. I expected them to mobilize themselves immediately into a standing army for the execution of Revenge. So I rushed from one friend to the other, relating my grievances and expecting large gobs of sympathy and mob violence in return. I wrote letters to them. I hung on the phone. I neglected all my other work to carry on my hate campaign.

Which was most exhilarating for a while.

But after a time, things began to go flat and I was forced to face an unpleasant fact. HATE WASN'T PAYING! It was, in fact, proving a total flop.

I was doing a record job of hating but it wasn't getting me anywhere. My regular work, my disposition and my digestion were all shot to pieces. I hadn't had a hearty laugh in a month nor had I enjoyed a good book or a sunset or a quiet hour in front of the fire.

Moreover, in spite of the fact that I was the World's Most Piteous Victim my acquaintances were beginning to treat me as if I were the World's Greatest Pest. They ducked if they saw me coming. They had sudden emergency calls if I phoned. And one and all, they refused to take sides in my feud.

Bitterest dose of all, my enemies were profiting by my hate!

THEY HAD HANDED ME ONE DIRTY DEAL BUT I WAS HANDING MYSELF A CONTINUOUS DIRTY DEAL. I WAS DOING MORE HARM TO MYSELF BY PERPETUATING OUR QUARREL THAN THEY HAD HOPED TO DO IN THEIR MOST MALIGNANT DREAMS. THE HATE I WAS SENDING OUT WAS COMING BACK TO ME A THOUSAND-FOLD IN MENTAL DISTRESS, PHYSICAL ILLS AND SOCIAL UNPOPULARITY.

HATE WAS A BOOMERANG!

So I stopped hating. I stopped having because I found it didn't pay. Maybe that motive won't win me any halos in the hereafter, but it has certainly simplified my life in the present.

Bismarck

Ascona on the shore of Lago Maggiore, the southernmost part of Switzerland and right at the Italian border.

Dr. Ludwig calls the Iron Chancellor the "inadvertent" founder of the German Republic. He sees the Republic, indeed, as the fruition of the work of Bismarck in uniting the German principalities into one great, powerful union.

In tonight's lecture, which in Boston should have a particularly wide appeal, our distinguished visitor will reveal his own "new" ideas concerning Bismarck's character, aim
